Foreword

The flurry of activity is over. Thousands of facts are again assembled and organized systematically to form Mennonite Yearbook 1974. Many conference secretaries and church institution personnel have contributed data for this annual directory. Thank you for your excellent response to our letters of inquiry.

Now that the Yearbook is completed the staff hopes that you will find this a valuable source of information about persons and institutions of the Mennonite Church throughout the world. You will see reflected in these pages the wide variety of ways the church is at work in God's world. Hopefully you will see beyond institutions and church buildings and meet the people — the community of men and women who presently are leaders in the Mennonite Church.

In addition to persons, institutions, and addresses, you will find selected statistics about church membership, Sunday schools and summer Bible school attendance, and giving. For example, in Table III, note that the membership in Canada and the United States has gone above the 100,000 mark. Also note that 19 conferences experienced overall gains in their membership. However, Sunday schools and summer Bible schools are experiencing about a 2 percent decline. (See Tables IV and X.) Growth areas in the Sunday school are the nursery, youth, and home departments, as well as the elective study courses. (See Table VII.) The preschool and adult attendance shows gains in the summer Bible school program. Per member giving has now crossed the $200 mark to $207.92. (See Table XIII.)

Levi Miller, the present editor, introduces the new features of this issue on the back cover of this edition. These are important to notice before using the Yearbook.

Many persons from the Congregational Literature Division were involved in preparing this Yearbook. Penny Frey has ably carried out the day-by-day detailed work of updating addresses and symbols. Malinda Kauffman's knowledge of the congregations on the North American scene and Joyce Millslagle's typing skills were valuable assets in putting the manuscript into its final form. And, of course, many persons in the Manufacturing and the Management Information Services divisions of Mennonite Publishing House devoted a special amount of patience and perseverance in order to provide an accurate and up-to-date publication as possible.

And now we await your responses and suggestions. There has never been a perfect Yearbook. But we are trying. You can help James E. Horsch, editor for Yearbook 1975, by submitting corrections and suggestions for next year.

Laurence Martin, Director
Congregational Literature Division

Mennonite Church 1974

BY PAUL N. KRAYBILL

General Secretary of the Mennonite Church General Board

The organizational pattern emerging in the Mennonite Church has provided the context for resource to the congregation and for the larger witness of the congregation beyond its local community. This two-way focus of organization continues to call for considerable searching and exploration. How do the churchwide agencies more effectively serve the congregation and how do congregations work together to do the things they cannot do alone?

General Assembly

The first regular General Assembly to be convened under the new organization met in Harrisonburg in August 1973, with Board involvement. More conferences sent delegates than ever before.

There the church had to face where decision-making takes place and the role of this body in speaking for the church. The Assembly continues to face these questions as it builds on the tradition of the previous organization, Mennonite General Conference. Administrative decisions were made, budgets were approved, and elections were held. On major issues, however, such as amnesty and the role of women, statements were formulated for referral to the congregations for study.

But other questions and options continue to emerge. Can congregations deal with complex issues? How can they be helped in the process? Should the delegates agree to take a position on questions of churchwide significance?

The Assembly served as a new platform for testing the question and the debate will continue. A new search for leadership and help was evident but its form is still to be defined.

Communication

The churchwide staff faces the somewhat paradoxical role of being at once listener-servant and leader-innovator. A good balance depends at least on effective communication in an atmosphere of trust. Assurance that two-way communication is happening will greatly enhance the relationship between the agencies and the conferences and congregations. This is crucial because a breakdown in communication all too quickly isolates churchwide agencies into institutionalism and congregations into provincialism. Efforts are being made to enhance these channels of communication by regular contacts between churchwide agencies and conference leadership.

The staff of the program boards have spent time reflecting on these goals and have seriously sought to relate their work and programs to these guidelines.

Mission Strategy

The role of the General Board as an overall agency to whom all the program boards report has focused in a new way the working relationship among the program boards. Overlapping of program and gaps in activity become more evident now that there is a central focus for the work of these agencies.

One significant issue to emerge from this is that many agencies are concerned with evangelism, service, home mission outreach, congregational witness, and extension. The relationship of these agencies to each other has not been classified. A clear vision to plan strategy and direction in a comprehensive way for the whole church is still lacking. Only as this begins to emerge can we begin to focus our efforts in a more effective and meaningful way to reach out into new areas and to better utilize the resources that we have for a ministry of witness and service.

Goals and Priorities

Activities all too easily lose their focus and the real purpose of the church is obscured. The efforts of the several program agencies become most effective when they are linked to a larger goal beyond themselves. The process of defining that goal leads to a new commitment that goes beyond institutional needs and focuses instead on the church and its mission. Setting priorities on the basis of goals enables the church to concentrate on effective use of the resources that it has rather than being frustrated with the inadequacy or limitations of its resources.

These goals were adopted by the General Assembly and are serving as guidelines for the church and during the coming biennium:

Alive — renewed in Christ in every congregation
Biblical — understand, apply the Bible as a believers' church
Evangelistic — a committed, missionary people
Relevant — God's people in today's world
International — a cross-cultural, worldwide brotherhood

Response to Minorities

Minority brothers and sisters have been reaching out for involvement in the life of the church. Far too often they have stood at the side, sometimes by their own choosing and sometimes by administrative design, isolated from the mainstream of church life. Priorities, values, and decisions all too often reflect the comfortable status of our congregations rather than the aspirations and hopes of persons whose cultural background and life circumstance reflect inadequate resources to meet the needs around them. The Minority Ministries Council emerged as an attempt to minister to these needs and has effectively and clearly symbolized a new frontier for the church. However, if the church is to be the church in its truest sense, then we can no longer continue with the minorities maintaining a separatist organization. The minorities want to be a part of the total life of the church, particularly in its decisions and sharing in its life and work. We hope to achieve this goal through some structural changes.

Facilities Planning

A major concern of many years standing revolves around the question of facilities of the churchwide offices. While there seems to be a new readiness for joint facilities there is still a reluctance to plan for centralized offices. The General Board with broad support from the church has affirmed its Chicago location. Here the Board can achieve visibility and objectivity and relate to a growing mission frontier. Other Boards are reviewing location. Some joint planning may emerge but this is being studied in terms of the most effective way to carry out the agencies' role in relation to the constituency.

Vision

The church faces the future uncertainly. International tensions, political confusion, changing lifestyles, a broad divergence in conviction and understanding, all combine to create a certain hesitancy. A new vision is needed, a new sense of direction must be found. Preoccupation with the present circumstances must not cloud a sense of purpose that captures the imagination and stimulates new commitment to Christ and His church.

Mennonite Churchwide Program and Giving 1975

BY IVAN KAUFFMANN

Associate General Secretary, Mennonite Church General Board

The Mennonite Church in Canada and United States is a group of more than 1,000 congregations of God's people involved in a mission. The nature of that mission is described in the words of 1 Peter 2:9, 10, "But you are — God's own people, chosen to proclaim the wonderful acts of God who called you from the darkness into His own marvelous light. At one time you were not God's people, but now you are His people."

At the last churchwide meeting, Assembly 73 at Harrisonburg, Virginia, the churchwide programs were presented, considered, and approved. Each congregation is now invited to become a part of that worldwide mission through participating in the work of the churchwide agencies. The work of these agencies is the product of the prayer support, personnel resources, and the financial contribution of the total brotherhood. The mission that is worldwide involves the lives of thousands of dedicated Christians and represents an investment of nearly four million dollars of contributed funds. Each dollar contributed to the churchwide agencies is used as illustrated on the following page. The 1975 figures are used so that they are available to congregations in next year's budget planning.

Each of the churchwide agencies supplies conferences and congregations with the necessary information describing its program and financial needs. Each conference or district is responsible to work out guidelines and goals to assist congregations in planning their giving for churchwide causes. Questions regarding Mennonite Church giving can be directed to Mennonite Church General Board, Room 104, 10600 West Higgins Road, Rosemont, Illinois 60018.

Because giving patterns vary, each congregation will need to decide its share in the wider brotherhood work. Each congregation is encouraged to plan with a serious and prayerful concern that God may lead in their response to the churchwide work and the use of the resources which God has given to them. Congregations which distribute funds on offering basis are encouraged to take sufficient offerings for specific causes to share responsibly in the needs reflected in the askings on the following page.

We are grateful for the deepening and exciting experience of brotherhood which we continue to share as the Mennonite Church. We thank God for our enlarging experience in being "God's people in mission."

Regional Directory of Congregations

At the Mennonite Church Constitutional Assembly and General Assembly held in Kitchener, Ontario, August 16-19, 1971, the Mennonite Church in North America was delineated into five geographical regions. This directory lists Mennonite congregations alphabetically by state or province and city.† This listing includes all Mennonite congregations — those who are members of district conferences, as well as those who are not related to any district or conference. It also includes congregations that do not participate in a regional planning group or send delegates to the General Assembly.

Regional geographical areas, officers, and committees, as well as a summary of the conference affiliation of congregations, are noted with each region. Information regarding district conference organization, bishops/overseers, and congregations can be found in the "Conference and District Directory of Congregations," pages 38 ff. in this volume. Note that under the name of each congregation, the minister or other person in charge of the congregation is listed first, additional persons are then listed. Persons desiring to get in touch with the congregation should contact the first person listed. With a few exceptions each congregation has at least one contact person listed. No name indicates that this information was not available at the time of publication.

Conference and District Directory of Congregations

This directory lists Mennonite congregations alphabetically by conference, church, or district, and by name of congregation. Congregations in Lancaster and Virginia conferences and the Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church are listed by bishop districts. Conservative Conference congregations are listed alphabetically by states. Some of the conferences and districts do not affiliate with regional planning groups nor do they send delegates to General Assembly. The roman numeral following the name of the congregation indicates the geographical region in which it is located. Ministers, other ordained persons, or lay contact persons are listed in the Regional Directory of Congregations.

Church Communities

No Central Organization

This listing represents a first attempt to bring together the names and addresses of churches and intentional communities in the Anabaptist-Mennonite stream. Because some members of house churches also participate in a local meetinghouse congregation, there may be some duplication of statistics in memberships. Membership listed in the Regional Directory is approximate in some cases. Most of these groups are not members of any district conference or churchwide group. Our thanks to Michael Friedman of the Fellowship of Hope in Elkhart, Indiana, for compiling this listing.

What's New in the 1974 Yearbook?

A Contact Person for Each Congregation is identified. The contact person is the first name listed under each congregation in the Regional Directory. It is usually the pastor or one of the pastoral team. For those congregations without a pastor, a lay person serves in this capacity. Address and telephone number for all contact persons are found in the Ministerial Directory.

The Computerized Ministerial Directory provides complete information about all ordained persons in the Mennonite Church. Lay persons who serve as contact persons for congregations are also included so that it is possible to get in touch with each Mennonite congregation.

New York State Fellowship, a new district of the Mennonite Church, is included in the Conference and District Directory of Congregations this year. Most of the congregations also maintain their conference affiliation.

House Churches and Intentional Communities have emerged as a new form of church life in the past few years. These fellowships are in the Anabaptist-Mennonite stream, although most do not hold membership with a conference or larger association. See this new listing in the Conference and District Directory of Congregations.

Unaffiliated Mennonite Congregations are now easily accessible in one section of the Conference and District Directory of Congregations.

Conference Staff Persons are listed in more detail than in previous issues.
